ABOUT SPRINGER MOUNTAIN FARMS...

We are a family owned business that has been raising chickens for over 40 years. Years ago, in the mountains of Northeast Georgia, our founders started by selling chickens in the back room of their grocery store. Today our chicken products are sold in grocery stores across the eastern US and served in restaurants all over the country.

Our recipe for success is simple. We own and operate all of our facilities, allowing us to oversee how our chickens are raised and what they are fed every step of the way. Over the years, we have learned a great deal about the benefits of better animal care, better living conditions, and more stringent biosecurity practices, which enabled us to become the first poultry producer in the world to be American Humane Certified by the American Humane Association.

"You are what you eat" means our chickens are fed a pesticide free, vegetarian diet without the use of antibiotics, growth stimulants, steroids or hormones. We make our feed on-site from only all natural, American-grown corn and soybean, and test every load in our USDA Certified lab for any traces of contaminants or pesticides.

We understand the importance of a quality product, and welcome the opportunity to share it with you and your customers today!

Gus Arrendale, President
